The Daily Courant.

Monday, December 20. 1714.

The Duke of Lorraine's Letter to his Minister Monsr. Lamberti, dated at Nancy the 6th of December 1714. N. S.

I believe, Sir, you no ways doubt of my being extremely surprized to hear by the Courier which came from you, that when you applied to my Lord Townshend to obtain an Audience, that Minister made Answer, that since the Chevalier de St. George remained still in my Dominions the King thought fit to forbid you the Court. In case his Majesty should continue in this disagreeable Resolution with respect to me, I must submit to his Pleasure, and you have nothing else to do but to return hither as soon as you are able. However, you are first to apply to the Duke of Marlborough and to the King's Ministers, desiring them to lay before his Majesty the unfortunate Situation I am in, if after having been so ready to let the King know the Part I take in his Accession to the Crown of England, and after having been one of the first to make my Compliments and shew my Zeal on this Occasion, all Europe should be acquainted that his Majesty has some Reason to be dissatisfied with me. That I cannot conceive whence this should proceed, since as to the Chevalier de St. George the World knows by what Means he came into this Country. That every one is informed of the Situation of my Territories, which are surrounded and cut through on all Sides by France: That 'tis known how I had no Share in his coming into my Country; that I neither invited him to come thither, nor could I force him to go away: That lately upon the Death of Queen Anne, I knew nothing of his leaving Bar till twelve Hours after he was gone from thence; and that I knew nothing of his Return to Bar till after he was come back, as a Traveller that goes backwards and forwards in an open Country, and intermixt with other Territories, as mine is: That as to the Manifesto or Declaration dated at Plombieres, which the Chevalier de St. George had got printed, I knew nothing more of it, than that he gave me one after it had been published: But that really I am much concerned to hear from you, that it has been reported that the same Manifestoes have been spread abroad by you or by those of your Retinue. I own to you that I am extremely concerned at this, and that in some sort it seems to be a Design to make me uneasy, to give out that either I or my Servants meddled in such an Affair.

These are the Reasons which I have to offer, and which I would have you desire those Gentlemen to lay before the King; in hopes they will convince his Majesty of my most respectful Adherence to him, and that his Majesty will be pleased to admit you to an Audience.

But if, contrary to my Expectation, the King will not grant you an Audience, you are to come away, having desired the Ministers to let the King know the Concern I am under, and that I hope his Majesty will please to accept of my good Intentions and the early Care I took to shew him the inviolable Zeal I have for him.

This is all you will have from me, I am, &c.

Hamburgh, Dec. 18. 'The King of Denmark 'has renewed his Orders, forbidding the Transportation of Wheat or any other Sort of Corn 'out of Holstein, to prevent the Dearness 'and Scarcity that is much apprehended will otherwise be very great there. They continue 'with such Diligence to furnish and fill the Magazines with all sorts of Provisions, that the Peasants are obliged to bring in Corn and Hay daily as well on Holy as Working-Days. 2000 Tons 'of Rye being carried into Rensburg last Sunday. 'On the 13th Instant three Regiments of Horse, 'Wurtemberg's, Knoyl's and Bulow's, received Orders to enter immediately into the Bishoprick of Lubeck, and to observe there an exact Discipline, that they may avoid being too chargeable to the Country, and enable themselves to subsist the more commodiously; and 'tis likely they will be followed by more Troops, to fortify the most important Posts that lie along the River Trave. As this Bishoprick has been hitherto spared in respect to the Duke Administrator, to whom it belongs, the Danish Minister who resides here has declared by Order of the King his Master, that after the late Discovery made of a secret Treaty between that Duke and Count Steinbock, and the hostile Paces which he continues to make in giving the Troops of Holstein to the King of Sweden, his Danish Majesty cannot forbear considering the Duke-Administrator of Holstein as a declared Enemy, and to send part of his Troops into that Bishopriek for the better observing the Motions of his Enemies, and defend the Passage of the Trave on that Side. General Dewitz is gone from Copenhagen to assist on the Part of his Danish Majesty at the Congress of Brunswick, accompanied by the Counsellor of Justice M. van Holten, who goes in Quality of second Plenipotentiary. We hear also from thence, that Lieutenant-General Gersdorf is appointed President of the Council of War who are to consider of the Conduct which Count Steinbock has hitherto observed. On the 8th Instant an English Ship from Riga arrived at Elsinore, which had been attacked by a Swedish Privateer, with whom she fought, and defended her self so well that the Enemy went off after he had a great many of his Men killed or wounded. But the same Privateer did afterwards take another English Ship which was not so well able to defend her self. His Danish Majesty has put off his Departure for Holstein for some Days, but in the mean time has given Orders to the Troops who are to form the Army to march out of their Quarters and make Room for others that are to be placed there. The Duke of Wirtemberg and General Scholten are come to Rensburg, which is the Place of Rendezvous for the General-Officers, from whence the Orders will be given for the March of the Troops towards the Trave. They write from Stralsund, that they expect to receive suddenly 3000 Horses; and 'tis reported that the Duke of Mecklemberg Swerin has agreed with the King of Sweden to raise 6000 Men in his Country for that Prince's Service, upon Condition that he may command in Chief in the absence of the King. It is certain that Duke continues to raise great Sums of Money upon the Gentlemen of his Country, and 'tis said he has already advanced 200000 Crowns to his Swedish Majesty, which gives Occasion to great Murmuring and Complaint throughout his Country. From Berlin 'tis advised, that Baron Gortz the Holstein Minister has notified to General Grumbkau his arrival at Stralsund, and has given him the choice of the Place wherein to fight a Duel, and that General has by his Brother named the Country of Mecklemberg for the Action. The Prussian Regiment of General Finck took Prisoners on the 12th Instant a Swedish Captain and his Company at Kuritz, who by forcing the Boatmen had got over the Elbe at Havelberg.
